M'DONALD RESTING AT SCOTLAND HOME

Prime Minister Denies Report He Will Run for Parliament.

Downing street office on the telephone denying reports that he already had decided not to be a candidate for parliament in the next general election

He let it be understood that he will make no decision regarding his political future until the Labor party in Seaham Harbor which he represents in the house, has announced its attitude at a meeting tonight toward his position in the new national government.

Meantime, despite repudiation of the cabinet by the Labor parliamentary party and the influential Trades Union congress, he will follow the course charted for the emergency regime until the budget is balanced and the nation's tangled finances have been straightened out.

The liberals and conservatives, in party session, voted endorsement of the part their leaders are taking in the reorganized cabinet and Lord Reading, Liberal foreign secretary, announced at his party's session that David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, has concurred in all the Liberal decisions taken this far.

His statement refuted another rumor that Mr Lloyd George would take the field against the new regime as soon as he recovers his health

Still another report had Chancellor Philip Snowden resigning from the cabinet but the veteran statesmen stopped this with a statement that he will hold on to the end, retiring from politics after this national emergency.

JAPAN GIVES LINDYS OFFICIAL WELCOME

High Officials at Banquet for Colonel and Wife in Imperial Hotel

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Aug 26—Rounding out a day crowded with official and social functions, Col and Mrs Charles A. Lindbergh were formally welcomed to Japan tonight at a banquet given by members of the cabinet

The banquet came at the end of the hottest day of the year in Tokyo and those attending it were attired informally because of the severity of the temperature Both Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh appeared a little tired but the former showed enthusiasm when he spoke of aviation in his address.

The banquet was given under the auspices of the ministries of war, navy and communications, at the Imperial hotel Foreign dishes were served

W Cameron Forbes, American ambassador, the communications minister and Lindbergh were the speakers. The speeches were broadcast in Japan and a hookup was arranged for their transmission to America for broadcast there.

Colonel Lindbergh referred to his childhood dream of Japan as a fairyland and complimented Japan on the quality of its silk used in parachutes.

The large number of entertainments in honor of the Lindberghs resulted in some complications, but both Japanese and Americans in charge of the festivities said the mixup was "nothing serious"

The largest affair involved in the mixup was a geisha party arranged by the newspaper Nichi Nichi The party had to be called off Nichi Nichi officials said the colonel accepted their invitation with thanks in behalf of himself and Mrs Lindbergh, but at the last moment sent regrets

A group of 500 Galion adults and children took part in the pageant, "Historic Galion," portraying the story of the city's founding and progress in the first of two presentations last night at Heise park. The natural beauty of the park was enhanced by large pillars and afforded a beautiful setting for the presentation.

Greets Miss Galion

The pageant unfolded immediately following a scene of Uncle Sam and Ohio congratulating Miss Galion on her Centennial anniversary, and Galion's history, from the time of the Indians down to the present day, was depicted in 16 episodes the first of which suggested the wilds before the coming of the white man and included an interpretative dance

Indian life and customs were revealed in the second with a war dance as the principle feature while the succeeding scene was that of the burning of Col William Crawford at the stake by the Indians.

During Episode IV the arrival of the early settlers in a covered wagon drawn by a team of oxen was shown and in Episode V the founding of "Goshen," later changed to "Galleon" and then to "Galion." The enthroning of Miss Elizabeth Bland as "Miss Galion" concluded this scene

A German and European folk dance featured the next episode and the figure of "Population" joined the court of Miss Galion for at this stage in Galion's history many people of German descent had accepted the invitation of the German pioneers to settle in this territory

An interpretative dance exemplifying the fevers which caused the death of many early settlers followed and then the early pioneer community life was depicted by a quilting bee and a quilting bee dance.

With the opening of Episode No 10 was shown the development of Galion, including the arrival of the stage coach and new citizens and the establishment of the first business houses and professional activities. There was also a processional of pioneers which revealed the names of the first postmaster, tavern owner, teacher, preacher, mayor, the founders and first settlers.

Arrival of Railroads

The coming of the railroads and the railroad shops were events of Episode 12 Civil war days followed next and this scene was featured by a solo dance by Mrs Ralph Evans

The industrial era and many of the fashions and distinctive items of the "Gay 90's" were pictured The finishing touch to this episode were popular dances of that time which were presented by Mr. and Mrs. James Gill

World war days were described in Episode XIV which included an interpretative processional while episode XV told of the departure of the Erie shops from Galion and also included a dance number

Episode XVI was the grand finale and included a drill of the American states, processional of many foreign countries, processional of the service, welfare, culture and fraternal clubs of Galion and then the interpretative dance, "Rainbow Future."

Music for the presentation was furnished by a 20-piece band under the direction of Eugene Weinberger of Mansfield. The pageant was written and directed by J. Clarence Sullivan of the Emilie Sullivan Studios of Columbus, and the dances and processionals were under the direction of Miss Fern Olmstead Dancing Studios of Columbus. Costumes and staging were by Emilie Sullivan of Columbus.

Galion's pageant committee included Robert W. Marsh, general chairman, Mrs. L. E. Beck, in charge of cast and talent, Mrs. H. P. Evans, music, D G. Strother, sales manager, E. P. Beers, wardrobe manager, H. W. property and stage [illegible] F. H. Herr, treasurer and manager.

CLEVELAND SET FOR NATIONAL AIR RACES

Man-Made Comet, Hurtling Over City Tonight, Will Mark Opening.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug 26—A tall steel mast shrouded in colored bunting, towered before the grandstand at Municipal airport today, the home pylon in races which are to be flown during the national air races here next week.

The pylon, which was put in place yesterday, gave sudden evidence that tomorrow the air races would be upon Cleveland.

This morning the international team of noted foreign pilots warmed up their planes and took to the air in practice spins.

Within hangars mechanics busily engaged themselves upon last minute inspections of trim, short-winged planes, upon the operation of which several score pilots are placing their hopes for new world air speed records.

Around the four-mile boundary of Municipal airport has arisen a white canvas wall 10 feet high, and stretching from either side of the white rare administration building are thousands of seats to care for the 250,000 spectators expected to attend the 10-day meeting.

It will be a completely air-minded Cleveland for the next week or so. There is even to be an autogyro taxi service from the downtown section to the airport.

Tonight Captain Sinclair Streett of the army air corps, flying an army plane carrying flares, will roar down from 9,000 feet over University circle on the east side, a tail of fire behind him.

The man-made comet will signify the eleventh annual air carnival has come to town.

Major Leagues Start Building for 1932 Season

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—The signs of the waning weeks of the major league baseball season point toward a strenuous rebuilding toward the 1932 pennant race.

Already two National league contenders which have not done quite well enough, the Chcago Cubs and New York Giants, have made known their intentions of making important changes before next year while others have gone quietly about the business of trying out new talent, some of them quite successfully.

The Cub lineup already shows a good many newcomers. Vince Barton, Pacific coast outfielder, has turned out to be quite a slugger while Bill Jurges and Jimmy Adair, former Reading infielders, are working regularly. Another Reading product, Pitcher Johnny Welch, has had his baptism of fire and has won his first game.

The Detroit Tigers also have called in a good many prospects from the International league, including George Quellich, who came up from Reading and went back to Newark, and Billy Rogell and Nolen Richardson, who are taking care of the left side of the Tiger infield.

Doug Taitt seems to have made good in the Phillies as has Billy Urbanski for the Braves. Today Piet stepped into a hole in the Pittsburgh infield when Howard Groskloss was hurt and performed like a major league. The Pirates also have a good outfield prospect in Jensen, who has come up since mid-season.

The Giants, searching for another pitcher, found two when Jim Mooney, who came up from Bridgeport in the maneuvering to obtain Bud Parmalee from Columbus, turned out to be a winner.

Other recent arrivals from the minors include Denny Southern, who hasn't seen much service with Brooklyn, Jim Moore, who plugged a gap caused by injuries in the Athletics outfield, and Sammy Hale, purchased by Cleveland from New Orleans.

DELAYED AGAIN

Another delay has been added to the already long list of postponements affecting the playing of the "cellar championship" game between the Lutherans and Epworth Seniors of the No. 1 Sunday school league.

The game, set yesterday for today at Lincoln park, has been moved up until Tuesday of next week. Inability of the two teams to get their players out today is given as the reason. The team losing this game will be relegated to the No 2 Sunday school circuit. Both are now in a tie for last place in the No. 1 league.

FOUR GAMES BILLED FOR LINCOLN PARK SUNDAY, AUGUST 30

Continuance of Brilliant Competition Certain in Third Day of Championship Tournament.

It is taking quite some time to settle the question of supremacy in the Central Ohio recreation baseball tournament but when it is all over the team that has gone through unbeaten will have a pretty fair claim to the Central Ohio recreation ball championship. Sunday will see the third day of competition in the tourney at Lincoln park field, a four-game schedule being on tap for that day. In two previous days of competition 12 other games have been played.

Competition in the tourney to date has been exceptionally keen, as any one of the 28 teams who have played will testify. Brilliant play has been the rule rather than the exception and teams that heretofore had been considered just about the strongest in the district have been forced to bow to other organizations. The four-game schedule arranged for next Sunday will undoubtedly mark the continuance of the same kind of play which has been in evidence thus far.

Starts At 1 P. M.

Starting at 1 p. m. the Marion All-Stars will engage Beck's Barbers of Findlay in the play-off of a 5-5 tie game of last week. While these teams may not demonstrate quite the brand of baseball which the other three games will produce they are almost certain to provide an amount of entertainment equal to any in the other games. Both teams are made up of younger players and both play the game for all it's worth. There will be more laughs from this battle than any game on the schedule.

The Jonner's Lunch team of Marion and the Farmers' club, a Marion county all-star organization will cross bats in the second encounter at 2 p. m. and this game will produce some good baseball. The Farmers are not particularly heavy hitters but in their first game demonstrated fielding ability second to none. Merwin Porter in center field for the Farmers had the crowd on its feet repeatedly with brilliant running catches during the team's first game.

The Jonner Lunch team, with Francis Bacon, Alex Kish of Bucyrus, Jerry Niemeyer, Hap Applegett and Bob Merchant, included in the lineup is certain to put on a fast game. These boys can play ball. They'll have to beat the Farmers, despite the fact the rural team will probably go into the game the underdog.

The major battle of the afternoon will come at 3 p. m. when the Chester Outdoor Ads of Lima return for an encounter with the Mohican Rubber company of Ashland. The Mohican nine won a close decision here last week with the Marion Merchants and will have a stronger lineup ready for play this week. Ashland was hindered somewhat last Sunday by the absence of its regular starting hurler but Manager Ralph Fry has promised to have him on hand ready to throw at the Lima nine this week. This Lima club is one of the classiest teams in the tourney and is figuring on battling its way into the final game for a shot at the championship. The Linden Gophers of Columbus are almost certain to fight their way into the finals in the upper bracket of the tourney.

Carmosino Returns

Joe Carmosino, who hurled a no-hit, no run game for the Outdoor Ads last week, will be back to deliver his slants at the Mohican nine Sunday. If the Mohicans do much hammering of Carm's tosses, they'll deserve to win. He is one of the best hurlers to grace a local diamond in a long time.

Bob Francis, the Serv-U-Wel grocer pitcher, who tossed the second no-hit, no-run game of the day last Sunday will get another chance to display his wares in the nightcap game when he opposes the winner of the Beck's Barbers-Marion All-Stars game. The Serv-U-Wel nine ought to come through this game with a victory but it isn't likely they will be able to do it without somewhat of a battle.

A total of approximately 2700 fans have witnessed the two days of the tournament already played and it is a safe bet that a large majority will take advantage Sunday of four more interesting games.

BLUES TAKE SECOND PLACE IN STANDINGS

Kansas City Displaces Indianapolis on Runner-Up Rung of Association.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 28—From eighth place to second in a little more than a month is the accomplishment of Dutch Zwilling and his Kansas City Blues.

On July 13 the Blues, a slumping, disorganized band, were at the bottom of the American Association.

Yesterday the Blues won sole possession—for the day at least—of second place by whipping Toledo, 4 to 2, while Indianapolis were losing to St. Paul.

John Murphy held the Buffins to six hits, while the rest of the Blues hopping units [illegible] for four runs in the seventh to clinch a 4 to 2 decision.

Milwaukee played even with runaway baseball and Columbus took the series final, 9 to 6. The Brewers scored five visitors, 10 to 22. Nine [illegible] were left stranding on the bases. And a long fly by Hudson with two men on in the seventh inning, squelched [illegible] Brewers gave Babe the heartburn for a [illegible] run.

Minneapolis thumped [illegible] to win [illegible] of the series [illegible] Louisville, winning the final 12 to 3.

FERRELL CHALKS UP 17TH WIN AS TRIBE BEATS BROWNS 11-1

Detroit Pounds Five Chisox Hurlers for 9-4 Victory; Cubs, Reds Split.

BY GAYLE TALBOTT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dick Coffman, ambitious young righthander of the St. Louis Browns, stopped Lefty Grove last Sunday when Connie Mack's star needed only one more victory to set an American league mark for consecutive victories. It is sad to relate what happened to Coffman his next time out, which was yesterday.

Facing the Cleveland Indians, the Alabaman lasted two innings, in which he was hammered for eight hits and six runs and generally manhandled.

As a result of their explosive start at Coffman's expense, the Indians went on to win without half trying, 11 to 1. Wes Ferrell, who has recovered fully from the effects of his no-hit, no-run game earlier in the year against the same Browns, gave up only four hits.

In the day's only other American league game, the Detroit Tigers pounded five Chicago White Sox pitchers for 15 hits and a 9 to 4 victory.

Pinkey Whitney, Phillie third baseman, was the day's hero in the National league. Coming up in the eighth inning the score tied, he planted one of Kolp's offerings in the left field bleachers to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 5.

The Chicago Cubs produced one of the year's prime rallies to divide a double header with Pittsburgh. After losing the first 3 to 2, when Glenn Spencer set them down with four hits, they came back to score eight runs in the eighth inning of the nightcap and win it, 11 to 4.

Four other National league clubs were not scheduled.

MARKSMEN LINED UP FOR FEATURE EVENT

Nearly Thousand Shooters Face Traps in Blue Ribbon Matches at Vandalia.

By The Associated Press

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 28—Nearly a thousand marksmen faced the traps today in the Grand American handicap, annual classic of the amateur trapshooters association.

Handicap day is to American gun experts what derby day is to turfmen, the National open to golfers or the world series to the baseball world.

In a handicap preliminary yesterday, in which entries scored on 100 targets with the same handicap yardage they will be assigned today, Harry Schomerus of Hillsdale, Ill., jumped into prominence by breaking 99 targets.

Schomerus, who shoots at the Lincoln park gun club in Chicago, won a silver trophy, and $750 in prizes for his feat. He missed only his seventh target. He fired from the 21-yard line.

Rufus King of Wichita Falls, Texas, youthful winner of the 1930 handicap, fared poorly and finished with an 89.

The 18-year-old Texas defends his title this year under an additional handicap of an only recently healed fractured foot. He has been hobbling about on crutches.

In the women's preliminary, Mrs. George Peter of Phoenix, Ariz., displaced Mrs. W. P. Andrews of Atlanta, Ga., as champion by breaking 93 out of the 100 targets.

Pinkey Whitney, Phillies — Hit home run with score tied in eighth to beat Reds 6 to 5.

Theater News And Reviews

"SPORTING BLOOD" RECOMMENDED

Because "Sporting Blood" showing at the Palace Saturday and Sunday will not be reviewed in this column, the writer is giving an advance recommendation, based upon the hearty approval the picture has been given by recognized critics and the enthusiasm of those who have been fortunate enough to see it in other cities.

LEW CODY

The picture is regarded as one of the classics of the season, based upon the romance, "Horseflesh," by Frederick Hazlitt Brennan. Clark Gable, Madge Evans, Ernest Torrence, Lew Cody, Marie Prevost and J. Farrell McDonald are the principals in the cast, not including the real hero, "Tommy Boy," the horse.

The story has to deal with the crookedness and romance of race track life. Charles Brabin directed. The entire company moved to Lexington, Ky., to shoot the scenes, so you'll see a faithful setting for this "thoroughbred" picture.

BROOK DIFFERENT IN "SILENCE"

Clive Brook grows old and gray before your eyes in "Silence," closing tonight at the Palace. The picture has its gripping moments, and abounds in tense situations. Clive Brook has never played a role like this before—that of a petty English crook whose one redeeming feature is his love for Peggy Shannon. In a moment of despair, she marries Willard Robertson, an enemy of Brook.

Years later, the action moves to another city where Robertson has become the publisher of a leading paper. Brook meets Miss Shannon, who plays a double role in this picture, and learns that she is his daughter. John Wray who turns in a convincing bit of acting, attempts to blackmail Robertson with letters of Brook's. There is a scene between the daughter, her real father, her foster father and the blackmailer, and Wray is shot. Then it is that Brook keeps his "Silence." There is a dramatic ending, that will leave everyone satisfied.

Two comedies, a newsreel and an animated cartoon comedy are on the bill. H. H.

Automobile Stolen:

Automobile thieves continued their activities here last night by stealing a Dodge sedan belonging to Harry L. Miller, of 396 Oak street. The car, which was taken in front of his home, was a 1928 model and carried Ohio license B59,313.

When you get to a point where you can jog along in your car as you please, the roads are bad.

CALDWELL TALKS ON FLAG AT LUNCHEON

Two Vocal Solos Sung by Mrs. C. L. Rutherford, Accompanied by Mrs. Mouser.

Members of the Kiwanis club at the weekly luncheon at the Marion club yesterday, were given the opportunity to test their knowledge of the history of the national emblem when C. C. Caldwell, commander of the American Legion, talked on the history of the American flag.

Questionnaires containing 15 statements regarding the history of the flag, were distributed among the members of the club. The club members were instructed to designate statements that were true and those that were not.

The statements formed the basis for the talk given by the Legion commander. Flags that have become old and torn should be burned, but not as any ordinary article, but with a certain ceremony, according to the commander. Neither should the flag be draped under any circumstances, but should always hang open.

The flag code, now generally observed, Commander Caldwell said, is the result of an effort on the part of former President Harding, who in 1923 called a meeting of representatives of national patriotic organizations to form a national code. Seventy responded to the call and the present code, he said, is the result of this meeting.

Commander Caldwell, who is a student of the flag has given similar talks to the boys at the various Y. M. C. A. playgrounds during the summer.

Two vocal solos by Mrs. C. L. Rutherford accompanied on the piano by Mrs H. K. Mouser, provided a pleasing variety to the program. A poem by Mrs. B. Y. Williams of Cincinnati which had been set to music by Mrs. Mouser, was the first selection sung by Mrs. Rutherford. She also sang one stanza of The Star Spangled Banner.

Entertain Class.

MORRAL, Aug 28—Mrs. Florence Parker and Mrs. Helen Granke entertained the Lotus class of the Methodist Sunday school, Wednesday night at the home of Mrs Parker. Mrs. Anna Lucas had charge of the devotionals and Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith had presided for the business meeting. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

LOCAL MAN TO BE DIRECTOR OF MUSIC

Harling Spring, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Spring of 780 south Prospect street, left yesterday for Kansas City, Mo., where he will take up his duties as director of music at Westport High school. Spring spent the summer with his parents.

Spring, a graduate of Harding high school in 1925, received the degree of bachelor of arts from Denison university in 1929. The next year he taught in Parsons college at Fairfield, Ia. Last year Spring received a degree in public school music from Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill.

He was accompanied as far as Indianapolis, Ia., by Miss Margaret Van Nice who has been visiting at the Spring home.

Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

DELICIOUSLY FLAVORED WITH MALT SUGAR AND SALT

HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH

W. K. Kellogg

KELLOGG COMPANY BATTLE CREEK, MICH. • LONDON, ONT.

THINK of all you get! Many delicious treats for breakfast. And there's lunch—what could be better than Kellogg's and milk with fruits or honey added?

Then, the children's evening meal—Kellogg's are wonderfully wholesome and easy to digest. And many a man knows them as a delicious and healthful bedtime snack.

Always ready to serve—no trouble or work. Costing only a few cents a package. Of all the foods you buy, Kellogg's Corn Flakes are indeed one of the most economical and convenient. No wonder they are the most popular ready-to-eat cereal in the world.

Wise buyers put the name Kellogg on their grocery lists. No other corn flakes have ever been able to duplicate the matchless flavor and crispness of genuine Kellogg's. More than 12,000,000 people prove this every day by buying Kellogg's Corn Flakes.

Look for the famous red-and-green package—with the inner-seal waxtite wrapper that keeps the flakes crispy-fresh even after opening. Still another exclusive Kellogg advantage. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

I'M GLAD THAT ROMANCE HAS GONE ON THE ROCKS, TOOTS! I LIKE DANNY - HE'S A NICE BOY, AND HE AND YOUR COUSIN WOULD MAKE AN IDEAL COUPLE, BUT I'M DEAD AGAINST ANY MARRIAGE THAT WOULD MAKE COLONEL HOOFER AN IN-LAW OF MINE!
NO, I HAVEN'T A DATE WITH MABEL! WE HAD A BUST-UP AND I NEVER WANT TO SEE HER AGAIN!
DANNY, THAT SOUNDS ALMOST TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE!
YOU SHOULD HAVE SEEN CASPER'S FACE LIGHT UP WITH JOY WHEN I TOLD HIM I WAS THROUGH WITH YOU, DANNY DEAR!
COLONEL HOOFER NEARLY DANCED WITH JOY WHEN I TOLD HIM WE HAD A BUST-UP, MABEL! WOULDN'T THEY DIE IF THEY KNEW WERE ONLY PRETENDING TO BE MAD AT EACH OTHER TO PACIFY THEM!

ANNIE ROONEY — BY DARREL McCLURE

GEE PRINCESS - I'M GLAD ALL OVER BECAUSE YOU DIDN'T DIE FROM THAT SNAKE BITE! SOON WE'LL CAMP FOR THE NIGHT AN' IN THE MORNING YOU'LL FEEL GRANDER THAN ANYTHING!
YOU KNOW, I ALWAYS THOUGHT A PRINCESS HAD LONG GOLDEN HAIR - AN' WORE A LOVELY CROWN ON TOP OF HER HEAD - BUT, HONEST, THAT LADY BROWN IS A REAL PRINCESS - THE GUIDE SAYS SO!
GEE, IT'S PRETTY IN THE MOUNTAINS - SO NICE AN' QUIET - AIN'T I'VE EVER SEE SO MANY STARS IN ALL YOUR LIFE?
HONEST, IT LOOKS LIKE I COULD REACH UP AN' TOUCH A STAR, WITH MY HAND - YOU KNOW, I WAS THINKIN' MAYBE ALL THOSE SWELL STARS ARE REALLY FLOWERS THAT GROWN IN THE FRONT YARD OF HEAVEN

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Peaches for canning reached the low price record last night when one dealer offered grade A fruit at $1.00 a bushel, the lowest price asked by local dealers in the last 10 years. The offer was a special, however, and today found the prices showing but little change from those asked by most dealers yesterday.

Northern Ohio peaches are now coming on the market and the next two weeks will find a steady flow of fruit from this territory coming on the market. Just how low the prices may go on this fruit, dealers hesitated to predict.

Home grown plums were fairly plentiful and were selling at around $1.50 a bushel. California grapes were being offered at two pounds for 25 cents and California bartlett pears at three pounds for 25 cents.

Sweetcorn which has been flooding the markets for the past several weeks, was not so plentiful today although a price of three for 25 cents, prevailed at most markets. Dealers were carrying but few pickles for canning that were selling at 30 cents a hundred. House-to-house peddlers, it was said today, were offering pickles at 30 cents a bushel. Tomatoes are selling at from 50 to 75 cents a bushel with large supplies.

WHEAT PRICE HOLDS STEADY

Corn Reacts Sharply Higher After Slight Drop in Early Trading.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Wheat trading had a fairly steady tone at the start today in sympathy with news from abroad. Less pressure of Russian wheat was reported. Corn encountered selling on reports of heavy rains over parts of the belt, but firmed quickly after scattered buying orders revealed a lack of selling pressure. Wheat firmed in sympathy with corn. Wheat started steady to ¼ lower. Corn was unchanged to ¼ down, but reacted sharply to above yesterday's finish.

Commission houses had resting orders to buy December wheat at 81 cents a bushel, and these absorbed pit offerings. The weather in western Europe was clear and warm, favorable for harvesting and threshing. Light frosts were reported near Regina and Calgary, Canada. The Liverpool market showed relatively little change, easing slightly on a quiet demand, but showing resistance to pressure.

Corn rallied to above yesterday's close when small buying orders disclosed a marked lack of offerings. Report of heavy rains in Iowa were regarded as bearish at the start. Unofficial reports from Nebraska said corn had deteriorated 34 per cent in the last month. Light frosts were forecast for parts of Wisconsin tonight. Oats strengthened with other grains. Provisions were stronger with hogs and grains.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday Aug. 20

A VERY lively but baffling state of affairs is betokened by the rather conflicting and peculiar lunar aspects and mutual planetary influences. While there may be sudden turns in affairs, with singular and intriguing complications, yet there is also sign of some stable progress, possibly in connection with property or with large corporations or combines. But there is menace of both secret and open hostility, with some reactions violent and unexpected, possibly touching personal contracts.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of peculiar and unexpected development of complications, with both secret and open hostility, probably hinting of legal entanglements of an ill-advised nature. Sign all writings cautiously and beware irregularities of all natures. A child born on this day may have an unusual nature, with conflicting qualities, although it should be talented, alert and industrious.

Notable Nativity: Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, author.

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press

BERLIN—Die neue fraulein ist schlank. Modern German girls because of athletics and outdoor life are slender in contrast to the generously upholstered figures of their mothers and grandmothers. Many of them are devotees of the sun tan fad and present well-browned features where one once saw apple red cheeks.

NEW YORK—Mrs. Jean London Mainwaring, daughter of the late Jack London, says it is difficult to find beautiful women in Russia. She blames lack of proper food and says because women are doing rough heavy work she same as men. "There is no charm."

NEW YORK—Fannie Hurst believes Americans have something to learn from Scandinavians but it isn't about the enhancement of feminine charms. "Their women hold to solemnly to their own conceptions of dress," she said on returning from abroad. "They are good, healthy, staunch, uncosmeticked women, who do not care so much about looks. Fortunately or unfortunately, I belong to a civilization which believes in aiding and abetting nature."

LONG BRANCH, N. J.—"Shipwreck" Kelly, flagpole sitter, has an added inducement to stay on his present perch. A constable is waiting at the foot of the pole to execute a judgment for $75 as soon as "Shipwreck" comes down.

TULSA, Okla.—The low price of crude oil is of benefit to matrimonially inclined swains and maidens of Tulsa county. Two justices of the peace have offered to perform marriages gratis until the price of oil reaches a dollar.

New Cigaret Tax Stamps Received by Treasurer

Will Be Distributed to Retailers for Use When New Law Becomes Effective Sept. 1; All Packs Must Carry Stamps.

The arrival of $2,000 worth of stamps in the office of County Treasurer Bert J. Shelton this morning presaged the introduction of the cigaret tax in Ohio Sept. 1 when all retailers must pay a tax of one cent for every 10 cigarets sold.

Stamps in the $2,000 shipment include 10,000 one cent stamps, 70,000 two cent stamps and 10,000 five cent stamps. The two cent stamp will be the most commonly used and will boost the price of popular sized packs of cigarets two cents.

Under the cigaret tax law, retailers are made responsible for the proper stamp being on each package of cigarets sold. Stamps for Marion county's 138 cigaret vendors are now available at the treasurer's office.

The stamps greatly resemble a postage stamp, and have mucilage on one side. They are slightly wider than a postage stamp, and are printed in three colors, the one cent stamp being dark green, the two cent stamps bright red and the five cent stamps bright blue.

A corps of 47 state inspectors will be on duty at all times to see that cigarets are not sold minus the required stamps.

Jobbers and wholesalers probably will take the burden of attaching the stamps off the retailers within a few weeks, Treasurer Shelton predicted today. If the plan used in other states is adopted here, jobbers will attach the stamps and charge the retailers enough more to defray the expense of purchasing the stamps.

The face of the stamps carries the seal of the state, bordered with the words "State of Ohio." Across the bottom of the stamp are the words "Cigaret Tax."

All county treasurers are made deputy state treasurers to handle the cigaret stamps, and to make settlements with the treasurer of state each week. Retailers of cigarets must buy their stamps at the treasurer's office.

TRUSTEES TO PLAN RELIEF AT MEETING

Marion county township trustees will meet in the court room of the courthouse tonight to discuss poor relief plans and budgets for 1932. The meeting has been called by Albert Fetter of Richland township, president of the Marion County Township Trustees association.

Back from Vacation.

Miss Alma Denney, Marion county tuberculosis nurse, has returned from a three-week vacation. Her office is located in the city and county health offices in the courthouse.

es Auto Registration Never Became Law s Bill of Sale Act Still in Effect After Test Case; Marion County Clerk Awaits Notification of Ruling.

gle act, requiring cer- tikle on automobiles, the last legislature and fed by the same body r went into effect in herefore the old bill of remains in effect, the me court ruled yester- ding to an Associated story from Columbus. E. Grigsby, clerk of h a majority of clerks the state, has been automobiles under cer- tificates of title for 23 days as required by the Pringle act. Extra work and added expense entailed in making certificates of title during that period apparently has been for naught although the clerks were acting on instructions of state officials.

Although Clerk Grigsby is awaiting official instructions from Columbus on the effect of the supreme court ruling, it is probable that the old bill of sale registration will be resumed immediately. The Pringle act was passed 76 days before its repealer was enacted, resulting in instructions to the clerks to register automobiles under certificates of title for a 76-day period beginning July 31.

Five judges of the court concurred in the decision. The two other judges did not participate in the ruling.

Governed By Intent

The court held that it was the intent of the legislature to prevent the Pringle act from going into effect when it passed the repealer, and that therefore the repealer went into effect immediately, instead of at the expiration of the regulation 90-day period. The repealer, the court held, established the fact that the old bill of sale act had not been disturbed by the Pringle act.

The ruling was a test case, brought by the City Loan & Savings Co., of Wapakoneta, to force Joseph Moore, clerk of the Portage county courts, to issue certificates of title under the Pringle act.

Made Extra Cost

The work of Clerk Grigsby and his deputies was practically doubled, and the cost of automobile registration was greatly increased by the Pringle act. Prior to July 31, the clerk purchased 1,200 certificates of title and other required blanks for $137.05. Twelve hundred bills of sale, the clerk pointed out, would have cost only $5.10.

For filling out and filing 800 certificates of title in the last 23 days, Clerk Grigsby collected $216.50 in fees, whereas the fees collected from automobile owners during the previous 23 days under the bill of sale plan amounted to $131.

The clerk and his deputies were required to fill out all certificates of title without a fee, whereas any notary could fill out a bill of sale blank.

Youth Has Typhoid.

John J. Miller, 7, of 721 Wood street, is confined at his home with typhoid fever. The house has been marked with a typhoid fever placard by Dr. N. Sifritt, city and county health commissioner, who also sent a sample of water from a well from which the Miller youth had been obtaining drinking water.

The New York Post is authority for the statement that American bankers have arranged the terms of a new credit to Great Britain which will probably total $300,000,000 or more. Let's see! The first eighteen railroads to report for July had net operating incomes of $9,761,000 against $16,021,000 in July, 1930, a decrease of 39.5 per cent. How can a showing such as this fail to stimulate the energies of those lawmakers who are incessant in their attempts to hamstring the railroads by unfriendly legislation?

Two Stories Out of Russia.

Two stories came out of Russia last week which were notable because of the fact that, though they assailed the awful mismanagement and waste in evidence at Magnitogorsk, where Russia is endeavoring to construct the largest metallurgical plant in Europe, they were printed side by side in the Industrial Gazette, of Moscow. One was by an American engineering expert, John Calder, and the other by the Magnitogorsk correspondent of the paper named.

The American, who had served the soviet government as construction adviser in the erection of the Stalingrad and Cheliabinsk tractor plants was sent to Magnitogorsk to act in that capacity to the executive personnel of the steel construction trust, Stalmost. For a few weeks some progress was made, but no sooner was the work moving with some degree of smoothness, than the Stalmost president was separated from the job by the higher-ups in Moscow. The new man put on the job to succeed the former president of the trust, ordered every procedure changed and proceeded on an entirely different plan. A few weeks later he turned to another, and finally reverted to the original plan. As a result, the work was muddled. There was indifference everywhere. Possibly some progress might have been made under skilful engineers, but the engineers were technically ignorant. He was and still is being paid his salary, but he is permitted to do nothing for it. He is never consulted and any advise he offers is disregarded.

The correspondents story is even more of a scoring than that of the American engineer. The shops are in a muddle, the correspondent says, and only fifteen per cent of the program had been accomplished up to August 1, sixty days from the date set for the opening of the furnaces.

Though men and material are abundant, he continues, neither is utilized at the right place or at the right time. Like the American engineer, the correspondent makes clear that it is the executives at the top who are chiefly to blame and that they are entirely unversed in the idea of management and are incable of systematic organization.

The odd phase of the thing is that either writer should dare to write the story that he did and the Moscow paper dare to print it. It is not hard to guess what would have been the fates of the writers of the outbursts and the publishers of the paper had such stories been printed a year or two ago. Can their publication now be taken as other than evidence that a change has been worked in soviet Russia? Can it be that the one-time fear of the higher-ups in bolshevik control is being dissipated? Can it be that Dictator Stalin is losing his grip? Or is the probable explanation that Mr. Stalin has permitted the publication of the stories as a prelude to the casting of a few more of his lieutenants into the junk pile?

To Reduce Election Costs.

The Ohio institute, a statistical research organization of Columbus, has presented statistics, as readers of the Star's news columns may have observed, to show that Ohio is spending far too much on its election machinery, and it offers a plan for saving something like $600,000 to the state annually.

It must not be understood that the institute holds that money, save in exceptional cases, is being illegally expended. Its complaint is against the laws which make the spending of vast sums of money for election purposes obligatory, one of the chief offensive laws in its eyes being that authorizing salaried boards of election which last year received in salaries alone $238,628. It would have salaried boards of election eliminated.

By way of illustration, the four members of the Marion county board of elections received in the way of salaries $2,400, while the three county commissioners received $3,000 and the members of the Marion school district board of education received nothing. The county commissioners are in session three days a week, and the other three are devoted largely to public matters. The board of education meets once or twice a month but its members are unofficially on duty at their offices or homes every day of the year as problems arise. On the other hand, the members of the board of elections put in probably not more than ten to fourteen days during the year. Yet they draw $800 a year each, to the $1,200 drawn by each of the commissioners and nothing by the members of the school board.

Not only this but the Marion county board of elections has a clerk who draws an annual salary of $1,800 and an assistant who draws $1,200. It is probably well within the facts to say that one of these clerkships is a sinecure. In addition to this, four judges and two clerks serve at every primary and election. In the city, the presiding judge receives $10 and the other three judges and the two clerks eight dollars each. The pay is the same in the outside precincts save that the presiding judges therein receive mileage in addition to the $10. Four judges in each precinct are just as necessary to the honest handling of the ballots as two tails to a cat.

The institute is quite correct in reporting that the board of election jobs are the reward of political leadership. The central committee of each party makes the nominations and they are approved, practically without exception, by the secretary of state. As a matter of fact, election jobs are to a large extent the reward for party loyalty and regularity.

The institute urges the reduction of the number of full-time employes of election boards and the cutting down of precinct workers from six to four. It also urges the use of school houses for voting places where possible, the combining of precincts to make precincts approach closely to 400 voters and more care in the letting of the printing of ballots.

It may be said that the local board of elections is utilizing school houses, exercises care that the ballots are printed at reasonable cost and it at present considering the combining of small precincts to reduce the number of precinct workers, but beyond that there is little hope of relief, for party politicians will see to it that there will be no lessening of the rewards they have to give out to the faithful.

It doubtless would be a very fine thing if political leaders were public spirited enough to save the state $238,628 by serving without salary as members of the election boards and cut off another quarter of a million by decreasing the number of paid election workers.

Experience shows, however, that politicians do not handle things that way. Even with these election jobs as inducements, any county chairman or other political leader will tell you that it's a hard enough job to maintain an interested organization. Without these elements to offer the faithful, the chairman would be as badly off as a fisherman without bait.

Election laws have been improved and simplified in recent years, and doubtless there will be further progress in which may be incorporated some of the institute's recommendations. Any one, however, who hopes that either political party will promote the abolishment of the present election board system, involving in each county the dismissal of the party "war horses" from the payroll, shows an optimism which is not supported by the history of political policies.

The weekly weather and crop bulletin issued out there reports worms on half or more of the corn ears in most of Iowa. Looks like a case of more farm relief in the offing.

BOILED DOWN.

Editorial Opinion.

ICEBERGS JUST SIDETRACKED.

The usual crop of floating glacier fragments was produced this year in the Arctic regions and the icebergs were carried toward the North Atlantic ship lanes as usual. But an east wind intervened and floated most of them to safe harbor along the coast of Labrador. There, it is reasonable to believe they will remain until they disintegrate unless some future and unusual western gale turns them back and they join newer crops of icebergs that float down to harass ships that sail the North Atlantic.

This situation is revealed by the return of the coast patrol boat, General Greene which got back to Boston last week from a cruise of investigation along the coasts of Labrador and Greenland. The expedition set out for the North on July 4, following a spring during which waters frequented by transatlantic shipping were freer of icebergs than in any season since the International ice patrol was instituted, after the crash of the steamship Titanic on an iceberg in 1912, with a loss of 1,517 lives. A great deal of speculation attended the unusual spring season and the expedition was organized to learn what may have happened to the crop of icebergs.

Early announcements by members of the expedition hold out no hope that the east winds will continue in seasons to come and thus ward off the introduction of dangerous ice into the waters of the North Atlantic. However the expedition returned with a wealth of new information relating to currents and water temperatures and ocean depths whose assembly and study will no doubt be of value in the work of the international ice patrol in years to come. The data collected is in the hands of Olay Mosby, Norwegian scientist and oceanographer, a member of the expedition, who will compile them for practical use.

That the Gulf stream has widened out in its northerly country bringing its warmth to new localities, is reported by other observers.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

A NEW ROAD MONSTER.

A California highway freight company will send a huge truck and trailer across the country on a test run in an attempt to demonstrate the feasibility of a seven-day coast to coast freight truck schedule. This special truck, which has been christened "Los Angeles," and its trailer has a total of twenty two wheels and the outfit is driven by a powerful motor. It may be quite possible for it to cross the continent in seven days. That would be fast motor truck time, but certainly not many drivers would care to dispute its right of way. And what, it may be asked, will be the fate of passenger cars that overtake and attempt to pass this road monster?

The motoring public is almost unanimously of the opinion that the trucks and busses already operated on the highways are at least large enough and also too numerous in some localities. State authorities who take that view of the situation are to be commended for restricting such use of one of the most congested highways in northern Ohio. — Toledo Blade.

What Will Better Marion?

The following is the answer of one citizen to the question, "What Will Better Marion?"—the second in the questionnaire circulated by Dr Carl W Sawyer to get a comprehensive insight into the community feeling regarding our home city in the hope of arriving at a remedy for handicaps, if any, from which Marion may suffer. From day to day, answers of various citizens to the same question will be given publicity on this page.

Better cooperation among and between Marion's citizens and public officials.

Education of Marion's citizens as to the opportunity offered by our community, which will no doubt result in greater civic pride.

Greater interest in the problems of the city by the citizens themselves. This will be found particularly advantageous in times of elections and will enable each voter to cast his or her ballot for the one most capable of performing the required duties, regardless of party affiliation.

Every effort possible should be made to bring additional shops and factories to Marion, calling attention to the ideal location available, wonderful shipping facilities offered by four large steam roads and one electric line and the absence of labor troubles.

Typhoid Inoculation.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Summer is the season when there is a great migration of people to the country. The automobile carries the vacationist in search of happiness. All through the year, travel is more extensive than ever before.

City dwellers rarely appreciate and hardly realize the protective measures at their disposal. Among other advantages, the careful supervision of the water supply by the city authorities guards against typhoid fever. No such supervision can be had in the broad countryside. It behooves those who camp by the wayside, or put up in small isolated sections, to be careful of the water they drink.

In the past thirty years the advances in science have been so great that, among other advantages, there is no reason for any one to contract typhoid fever. Typhoid fever is prevented, not only by supervision of the public water supply, but by individual typhoid inoculation.

There are too many districts where the water is contaminated. Because of this, and also because most persons are apt to be careless, it is advisable to be inoculated against typhoid fever. This is particularly important if you contemplate traveling abroad.

It is rare indeed for a case of typhoid fever to be found in the United States army. This is because every soldier has been inoculated against typhoid fever. I see no reason why every citizen should not take advantage of this protection.

The injections are simple and do not require loss of time from work. They are given once a week—a total of three injections. Occasionally, following the second injection, there may be a mild fever but this rarely lasts more than twenty four hours.

I recommend that all individuals who contemplate any absence from home consider this means of protection.

Agassiz Fought Darwin Theory.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

One of the great naturalists of his time was Louis Agassiz, whose career is in considerable measure associated with the United States. A man of eager spirit and impetuous temperament, he occasionally came to conclusions which were not adequately supported by research. Moreover he was a man of very determined, if not obstinate character, and remained throughout his career a strong and consistent opponent of the Darwinian theory.

Louis Agassiz was born at Motier, in the Canton of Fribourg Switzerland on May 28, 1807. He had a magnificent education, attained in turn at Lausanne, Zurich, Heidleberg, Erlangen and Munich. The son of a clergyman, he was graduated in medicine, and took a further degree in philosophy. But none of these subjects appealed to him, his real taste was for zoology. In Munich he became associated with Martius and Spix. His work in arranging and describing the latter's collection of Brazilian fishes brought him to the attention of the great naturalist Cuvier, whose pupil he became in Paris. Agassiz was so brilliant that he was appointed professor of natural history at Neuchatel at the age of twenty-four! During the next twelve years he produced a monumental work in five volumes, on fossil fishes. Passing from the study of fishes to that of invertebrate animals he soon won a European reputation. He made several visits to England formed the acquaintance of the singular and unfortunate genius Hugh Miller, and made researches which resulted in the work entitled Fossil Fishes of the Old Red Sandstone.'

Turning away from natural history proper, on his return to Switzerland, Agassiz made extended researches in erosion and glaciation, for which Switzerland furnished such an ideal field for study. The work of Agassiz Forbes and Guyot, much of it done in collaboration with each other, has proved of great value in explaining the part that has been played by the Glacial era in erosion, as affecting man and the animal kingdom.

Because of his fame as a scientific lecturer, Agassiz was invited in 1846 to deliver a course of lectures at the Lowell Institute in Boston. This led to his appointment as professor of natural history in the Lawrence Scientific School of Harvard. His subsequent researches, at Cambridge and far afield, in the Alps and in Brazil, won international attention. One of his contributions of permanent importance was the founding of the Museum of Comparative Zoology. He was a pioneer in the establishment of a practical school of marine zoology. His 'Contributions to Natural H story of the United States," in four great volumes, is a work of lasting value. His influence as a scientist was immense. He died at Cambridge on December 14, 1873.—Copyright, 1931, King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

When Chase Clashed with a Pupil.

By J. H. GALBRAITH.

Membersh p in a peace commission that met in Richmond in 1861 brought Salmon P. Chase in contact with an old friend and a former pupil, who was living in Richmond, A Dr Wirt. He was a son of William Wirt, once attorney general of the United States. When Chase, fresh from college, arrived in Washington, he found a friend in Attorney General Wirt. Wirt assisted him in establishing a private school, and gave it distinction by sending his own son to the school. Later he took Chase into his office and became his preceptor in the study of law. The young law student had the entree of the Wirt home, and at one time aspired to make one of the attorney general's daughters his wife, but remembering his uncertain future, never had the courage to propose.

Attorney General Wirst was a Virginian, but after his service in the cabinet he located in Baltimore, and never returned to Virginia. But his son, the doctor, had established his home in Richmond and teacher and pupil of the former days met as representative of different sides in the outstanding issue of the day, the growing strife between the North and the South over the slavery question.

Dr Wirt urged upon the peace commissioners from the North the importance of arresting any attempt on the part of the government to relieve Major Anderson at Fort Sumpter. In the face of the tense feeling such a movement would be certain to irritate the South beyond the point of control. Chase clashed with his old pupil as to this. The president had taken an oath to preserve the union, defend it and enforce its laws, surely the leaders in the South were under no such obligation. Further it seemed to him that Major Anderson, having taken the position he was in, in the discharge of his duties which he was under oath to discharge, it was the bounden duty of the government to aid and protect him to the uttermost.

Mr. Chase was provoked when he later read in a Baltimore newspaper an article taken from the Richmond Dispatch, a statement of which he had said in this peace conference as made by Dr Wirt, and wh ch he declared was perverted far from the truth, and on March 10, six days after he assumed the post of secretary of the treasury, wrote a characteristically sharp letter to the doctor, but the war was on.

"Yes, said the great man, "I felt it would be of immense help if some time I needed to tell a lie."

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 28—Thoughts while napping. Wonder what Shakespeare would think of our Rialto? Hope Williams and Beatrice Lillie have identical profiles. Delicatessen slogan. "Our fame warrants our name." The Park avenue club doorman whose name is Pat Noonan. But is called Tenhunter Gwendus.

Geraldine Farrar, a Melrose, Massachusetts girl, who made good in the city. Those brimmed postage stamp hats ladies wear cocked on one side. The roly-poly Pat Sabborn, music critic. Few offer the world's audience of a cub reporter. Orchids $1.50 each. And not many takers.

The Chrysler spire reminds me of a sucking thumb. A New York branch of the Pan Hermes—leather things. Oscar of the Waldorf suggests one of those ruddy-cheeked English curates. The terrific expense of the huge fur stores in summer. Now I'm a fur worker.

A gathering of clouds, sudden blackness, a shower and all is sunny again. That's the way trouble vanishes. Thackery represented forty as the age of settled sobriety. But that was long ago. Today the boys just begin to run up at that age. Nobody seems jealous of Bob Ripley's amazing success.

Buster West and Eddie Foy, Jr., walk alike. And there's Charles King who walks like George M. Cohan. But the most graceful walker of all is Jack Dempsey. Bob Davis has finally talked me into playing a game of golf. Wellington Cross and his wife.

Chalked naughtiness on the sidewalk in front of the Vanderbilt home. Radio City is beginning to take shape. I always get off balance turning a Broadway and Fifty-Seventh street corner. Just a flutterer in the wind. One of Broadway's squarest-shooters — Sime Silverman.

Lou Forman, the Palace conductor, flagged taxis with chewing gum on sticks fishing in coins through subway gratings. Tony Biddle wears the widest winged collar since Lou Manns. Walking all through the white lights I remember but two signs—the girls swinging at Forty-Seventh street and the news bulletin flashes.

Another one of those Beekman and Sutton places has sprung up at the foot of the Eighty-Sixth street overlooking the blackness of Welfare island. It is four blocks along East End avenue and facing the clump of greenery known as Carl Schurz park. On either side of the aristocratic area stretches a tenement neighborhood. Vincent Astor is reputed to have sponsored it and flung up one of the most pretentious apartment houses.

On the river side of Schurz park is an asphalt esplanade with comfortable benches where a friend and I rested a moment. Out of the park came a well-dressed, clean-cut and hatless young man. Approaching us he told excitedly of having just arrived from California and that he must have something to do—any sort of odd job for a meal and a place to sleep. His embarrassment was acute as both of us reached instinctively for a coin. "I'm not a beggar," he said and his chin quivered. Before we could stop him he rushed off. In the car going home we saw him on a corner a few blocks away, stopped and motioned to him, but again he walked swiftly on—the most pathetic picture of complete bewilderment I ever saw.

My friend and I drove on in a silence of self-accusation. Unfairly we had judged a personable youth immediately as a beggar. I am satisfied the young man was a stranger, sincerely, honest and frightened by a great city. Our treatment was impulsively thoughtless, but nevertheless shabby, and if he tried to shame us he did the job thoroughly.

* * *

Incidentally, my friend, from out of town, is quite deaf, but has found a way of enjoying the best shows and concerts while in town. By sending his seat number and $7.50 four days in advance to an agency an ear phone is installed. A sterilized earpiece awaits at the box office to attach to the handle.

Sign in window of an east Fifty-Third street residence: "Don't ring our bell. Speakeasy on third floor back."

Billy E. Van sends me a bottle of concentrated pine to sprinkle into a jar of sand, place near the bed "and woo sleep in the aroma of a great, clean forest..." "I'm trying it out tonight and with my imagination I'll probably show up for breakfast swarming with elephants."—Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Unmitigated Rascals'

Now it is reported that some unprincipled scoundrels are selling counterfeit wine bricks which makes a revival of some of the old gag brick jokes practically certain.—Boston Globe.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Aug. 28—There is at least one person in the capital to whom this protracted vacation of Secretary Stimson in Europe does not appeal at all.

He is Eddie Savoy, the secretary of state's aged negro messenger and all sort of major domo around Mr. Stimson's office at the department. Eddie, whose period of service in the state department dates back to something like a half-century under civil service regulations must retire this month.

As a matter of fact, his time was up one year ago, but when Secretary Stimson, interviewed with the commission in his behalf, the aged negro was granted a year of grace.

So Eddie's fate again rests in the secretary's hands. Civil service authorities have intimated that they can permit no further stay if he retains his job other provisions must be made.

If this short, bow-legged old negro were to pass from the state department, one of the most picturesque figures in the capital would be lost.

For Eddie is that. Diplomatic day—That day of each week when the secretary of state holds open house to foreign envoys resident in Washington—hardly will be the same without him. This always has been the big day in Eddie's week.

He dons his swallow-tail coat that almost sweeps the ground behind him, adjusts the correct shade of cravat to a wing collar, and makes his way to the nook on the secretary's office where he awaits the diplomats' arrival.

Rules of precedence must be strictly observed on these occasions. They are laid down by the diplomats themselves and their word in the corps is inviolable. An ambassador must be shown in before a minister. A minister goes ahead of a charge d'affaires.

Eddie knows them all and just where they belong.

The moment a diplomat puts in his appearance Eddie catalogs him.

Those sharp eyes of his observe every time the secretary's door opens. Eddie knows that the secretary has concluded his business with that particular diplomat, and he is ready to action.

Swallow-tail coat coming down and touching the floor as he shuffles toward the state-room. He motions to the next diplomat, his face wreathed in smiles, and calls out, "Walk this way, Mr Ambassador. Walk this way."

It is an experience in itself to watch the self-important Eddie at work on diplomatic day.

CHAPTER 3

Interlude by Freddy

SAM gasped. "But, Peak, I couldn't do that! That would be marrying you for your money."

He frowned thoughtfully. "I need you, Sam. For reasons that may be different, you need me. We need each other, Q. E. D."

"It seems like such a cold-blooded business proposition."

"Consider it a business proposition," Peak said. "I want to marry you for two reasons. The first is, Sam, that I love you rather terribly. Second, I'm conceited enough to hope that your feeling might change. Is that a foolish hope?"

"No," Sam said. "It very possibly might come true."

"Then that settles my side of the question. Why should you marry me? Well, I'm not such a bad young man. My gentle nature is a by-word in the community. In addition to that, I'm rich. I could give you—"

"Don't!" Sam pleaded desperately. "Please don't."

"All right. I wish you'd think it over."

"I will."

"Fair enough." He got to his feet. "What about New Year's Eve?"

She smiled up at him faintly. "I suppose I'll go."

"Swell!" He grinned at her, and strode away down the corridor.

As Sam passed through the city room she met Freddy.

"I'm thinking about giving a party at my place the night after Christmas," he said. "Could you come? Good. Meet me here about 8."

The city room of the Express on the night after Christmas was quiet. Sam found Freddy Munson.

"I want to thank you for my Christmas present," she said.

"You're welcome," Freddy said. "I wonder why I sent it. I must like you. That's it. I do like you. In my opinion you're a nice girl."

Sam laughed. "Freddy, you're becoming sentimental."

He grinned. "That's right. If I don't look out I'll become slushy." He was reaching for his coat, when a voice shouted his name.

When he came back he was scowling. "Sorry, but I have to go out on an assignment. You can go to my place, or wait along with me."

"Could I go with you?" Sam was pleased. "Come on, let's go."

That evening, Sam saw places she had never before seen, and she saw a new side of Freddy.

Freddy at his work was intent and efficient. As the story developed, Sam found herself regarding her tall companion with an increasing respect.

"Will you take me on another story soon?" Sam asked.

"Of course I'll take you."

Freddy was as good as his word, and during the course of that week Sam became familiar with police stations, hospitals, and the long corridors of City hall. "What do you think of the newspaper game?" Freddy asked one day.

"I love it!" Sam said. "I love being close to things and watching the wheels go round. The life is vivid and absolutely free from responsibility. I can see now why you laughed when I suggested that you might be married some day. Marriage would drive you absolutely crazy."

He frowned. "Would it?"

The night before New Year's Eve Freddy and Sam dined in a Chinese-American restaurant. Sam was aware that Freddy was moody.

Finally he said abruptly: "What shall we do on New Year's Eve?"

She shook her head. "I'm sorry. I'm going to the Cricket club."

"Oh." He scowled. "With Peak Abbott."

"Yes." Sam realized, with almost a sense of shock, how little she had thought of Peak during the past week. The week had been a vivid interlude—an interlude for which Freddy was entirely responsible.

Freddy said casually: "I'm getting restless. I think I'll throw my job and move on. St. Louis or Kansas City." He was elaborately careless. "I'm tired of this town."

"Oh." Sam sat perfectly still for a moment. Then she said quietly, "I'll miss you, Freddy."

He looked her in the eyes, his own sullen. "If you marry Peak Abbott," he said with distinctness, "you ought to be thoroughly ashamed of yourself."

Sam stared. "Don't you think that you'd better apologize?"

His smile was not pleasant. "I see no reason for an apology."

"Very well." Sam was furious, but she kept her voice calm. "I think I'd better be going now."

While Sam was waiting for Freddy to get his hat and coat, she saw her half-brother, Nelson. He was dancing with a girl who seemed vaguely familiar. Sam watched with interest, and saw that the girl in Nelson's arms was Martha Givens, the maid of all work.

Freddy found Sam half way down the stairs. In silence they walked to Sam's little car.

"Good night, Miss Sherrill," Freddy said mockingly. "I trust that you may have a delightful time with Mr. Abbott at the Cricket club."

"Thanks," said Sam. "I'll try."

The Cricket club was hot and crowded. The orchestra had been placed in a narrow hallway between the two table-lined rooms, which should have been a strategic point. At the far end of either room, however, its melodies were almost entirely drowned out by the babble of voices, with the result that the dancing couples were packed near the doorways in a struggling mass.

Sam tried to think about the beautiful spray of orchids on her shoulder. She wanted to forget Nelson and Martha Givens, and the necessity of speaking to him about her. She wanted to forget Freddy Munson. She wanted to forget Peak Abbott and the problem he presented. Able to forget nothing, she was forced to surrender herself, smiling, from one pair of male arms to another.

Finally the lights were turned out, as she sat at the table, and Sam knew that the New Year had arrived. Someone touched her arm.

"Miss Sherrill?" The uniformed attendant looked harried. "You're wanted on the telephone. I've been trying to find you for 10 minutes, but—"

Sam, vaguely alarmed, pushed her way through the crowd. Who would telephone her at this hour? Had Bonny been hurt in an automobile accident? Was Fourth ill?

To Be Continued.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

FRIDAY. It was raining when I woke up this morning and was so coolish that I pulled the sheet up over me and Jubilee, and Jubilee didn't like that so he got on top of the sheet, so then I rolled him up in it and pushed him out of bed, and I bet that supprized him, for he came down with a bump. I was just going to let him down out of the windows by his rope when I heard my father at the stair door and he said, "Did you fall out of bed, Thomas Aristides?" I said, "It sounded like I did, didn't it?" then he laughed and said it certainly did. I never do tell anyone any lies. It did sound like it.

I let Jubilee down out of the window and then I got on my short britches and went down and milked the cows and turned them out to go over to the vacant lot and wait for me to come along and take them to the pasture, and when I got in the house the girls were there, and my mother asked Feeble how her mother was getting along, and Feeble said, "Fine, thank you. Did you think she was sick or something?" So then my mother asked Younies and Maggie how their mothers were getting along, and they are all getting along fine.

On the way to the vacant lot we went over to see why Banty hadn't showed up, and he was in the upstairs part of his father's shed with two long poles he had got from the planing mill, and he was making him some stilts, so we thought we would let the cows walk a while, and the logs of the stilts were higher than a man, and when he got them done Feeble asked him to let her try them out, and I think he was kinda glad that she asked him. She put down on the kinda leading of the log of the outside stilts and we all helped her up there and then some more and then she stood up and we told her she all was balanced and told us to leave go, and we left go and she took a couple of long steps towards the fence, and then the stilts of one side began to slip out of the ground and so down went she with legs in every direction on three ends of the stilts, and we were going to run to help her up, but we couldn't on account of we were all laughing so much and she was going to be mad, and she was all right, and she got up and got all the mud off of her and then she said, "Thomas Aristides Jones, you are a mean boy to laugh at me when I fell down, and I'm going to tell your mother on you." So then I said I was sorry, and I was, and I helped her up on the stilts and she walked around and around and around and

STATE HEAD IS KENTON GUEST

Farm Bureau Executive Opposes Bond Issue in Address at Picnic.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Aug. 28—Opposition of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation to a proposed $7,500,000 bond issue for State Welfare institutions, and a declaration for the American Farm Bureau Federation that it will reopen its fight for the equalization fee in farm relief were high marks of addresses given at the Hardin County Farm bureau picnic Thursday.

L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Bureau, said the organization was in sympathy with the state's welfare work, but did oppose the method by which the revenue was to be raised through the issuance of bonds over a ten-year period. He urged that the money be raised through an amusement tax.

Ohio, he said, has the smallest bonded indebtedness of any of the states and should retain this status.

President A. F. O'Neil of the American Federation definitely placed the National Farm organization on record as returning to sponsorship of the equalization fe..

Urges Action

"The marketing act does not adequately provide control of surplus crops and this must be strengthened by adoption of an adequate plan," O'Neil said. "And further this must be taken care of during the coming session of congress," he said. O'Neil also criticised high industrial tariffs which he said were preventing sale of exportable farm surpluses.

Continuing his discussion of the federal marketing act, Mr. O'Neil said organized farm groups were not fighting it but, instead, were seeking to strengthen it, through the inclusion and optional use of the equalization fee and the debenture plan, to give the farmer his own American market.

Hoover, he said, held that the plan was economically unsound "Rather it has been found to be sound and not theory. "We have a right to our own markets and we are going to fight for it."

MISSING BROKER RETURNS TO HOME

Rosenthal Turns Up at Police Headquarters; Was Held for Ransom.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—Unkempt and unshaved, Charles Rosenthal youthful broker and heir to a large estate, appeared at a police station in the Bronx today and said he was kidnaped, blindfolded and held prisoner in a New York apartment for more than two weeks.

He said he was released today by his captors, who tossed him unceremoniously out of an automobile in the Bronx, then sped away.

During his absence his friend and attorney, Edward Nathan, announced he had received letters demanding $100,000 ransom. Traps were set for the kidnapers, but they failed. Efforts by relatives to communicate with the missing 24-year-old broker's captors through the "agony" columns of newspapers also were without result.

Rosenthal, who lives in Lawrence L. I., said that on Aug. 11 he took a young woman to a midtown restaurant for dinner, then entered a taxicab with her, driving toward the Bronx. They were stopped by three dark men in another car, who overpowered the broker, blindfolded him and took him to a flat he believes is in Manhattan. He was not injured.

Later detectives, who continued to question Rosenthal, said his story indicated the young woman was used as a decoy.

During the entire period of his captivity, Rosenthal said, he was forced to wear glasses with pieces of papers pasted on the lenses. He was bound securely.

TIRO MINISTER IN SERVICE 40 YEARS

Officiating at 350 Funerals and 196 Weddings Is Record of Rev. Turner.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug. 28 — Officiating at 350 funerals and 196 weddings is a part of the record handed down by Rev. R. H. Turner, Tire United Brethren pastor, who on Aug. 23 celebrated the fortieth anniversary of service in the ministry.

Rev. Turner recently prepared a detailed report of his life work which has included service in 10 charges and five years of field work. The Tiro congregation recently unanimously voted to return the pastor to the present charge after three years of service there.

During his 40 years as a pastor Rev. Turner has built four churches, two parsonages, has organized seven congregations and has preached 4400 sermons. He estimated that he has made 1300 conversions, received 1270 into church membership and made 25,480 pastoral calls.

For the 196 wedding performed he received a remuneration of $669.50 or an average of $3.41 per wedding. Rev. Turner explained the fraction in that he had received as low as 25 or 50 cents for the service.

Many Points of Interest on Sunday Motor Tour

Hunters of choice bits of scenery will delight in a Sunday tour through south-central Ohio outlined by the Marion Auto club. Several outstanding points of interest, sandwiched between unusually scenic views feature the tour.

The first objective is O'Shaughnessy dam in Delaware county, one of the greatest engineering feats in this section, and also the site of a rapidly growing menagerie. To get there, follow route 23 to Delaware, turn west in Delaware on route 42 a short distance below the business district of the city, and turn south on route 257 at the outskirts of the city. Continuing south on 257 after visiting the dam, the motorist will discover that this route ends at Dublin. Here the driver should continue south on route 31, which extends into Columbus.

Route 123 may be followed south out of Columbus to Circleville, and from there turn to the west on route 10. This section of the state is filled with beautiful views. Route 10 passes through Lancaster, home of the Boys' Industrial school. At Somerset, a small town, the motorist should turn northward on route 13 toward Newark, an unusually scenic route.

At Newark route 47 may be followed to the northwest to Granville, Alexandria, Johnstown, Sunbury and Delaware, where route 23 can be followed back to Marion.

BOMBS DAMAGE 3 CHICAGO THEATERS

Police Blame Trouble Between Owners and Operators' Union.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. — Three theaters, whose owners recently substituted eastern motion picture operators for those of the local union, were bombed shortly after midnight today.

One of the bombs exploded at the rear of the Ridge theater, and caused slight injuries to two small children, who were thrown from their beds in a 15-apartment building across the alley. The manager of the theater, Harold L. Lasker, estimated the damage at $2,000.

At the second theater, the Olympia, on the south side, more than a dozen windows were broken in the adjacent University of Chicago settlement house, showering sleeping occupants with glass. This theater was owned by Aaron E. Saperstein, president of the Independent Theater Owners association, who was directing negotiations with the local motion picture operators union.

The third was the Ray theater, where damage to the sound equipment on the stage and to the interior of the auditorium was estimated at $3,000 by the proprietor.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles A. Bellows blamed the local motion picture operators' union for the affair.

In a controversy between union operators and independent theater owners the latter have failed to convince the union that it should abandon its demand that two operators instead of one, be employed at each of the small houses. The owners contend the wage paid the second man represented the difference between their being able to operate at a profit or to suffer a loss.
